Principal/Associate Civil & Planning Engineer

Brookbanks Consulting Ltd is looking for an enthusiastic, dynamic and motivated individual to join the company as a Principal Civil and Planning Engineer.

The Company

We are a leading firm of Consulting Engineers, Project Managers and Development Consultants.

The company provides multi-disciplinary consultancy services on a diverse range of strategic development, infrastructure and regeneration projects throughout the UK. We have an impressive track record of providing leading edge advice on some of the most challenging and large scale projects.

The Role

The successful candidate will join the local business (being situated in a modern office adjacent to the National Exhibition Centre in Birmingham), and will lead the Planning Team in delivering a number of mixed-use, residential-led schemes as well as liaising with clients and managing staff who undertake work in the following disciplines:

- Transportation
- Flood Risk and Drainage
- Utilities
- Ground Contamination
- Noise and Vibration
- Air Quality

This permanent role will offer the chance to work on some of the largest and most prestigious development opportunities in the UK, taking the project lead and driving forward the Planning Team through its work in the pre-planning stages of project delivery.

The successful candidate is expected to have demonstratable knowledge in the following areas:

- Transportation
- Flood Risk and Drainage
- Client Facing & Project Delivery

Additional experience is desirable, but not essential, in the following areas:

- Planning (Applications, Legislation, Procedure)
- Residential Developments
- Environmental Impact Assessments
- Business Development & Marketing

Qualifications/Experience/Salary

Candidates will need a working experience multi-disciplinary service provision, including areas such as Transport Assessments and Flood Risk Assessments. The opportunity exists for more experienced candidates to take a wider project and team management role, with early promotion to Technical Director and a seat on the company management board.

The position will suit a candidate with a strong desire to further grow their career with an interesting and varied project workload.

The candidate must have excellent communication skills and be the sort to thrive in a hardworking and dynamic work environment.

Salary will be commensurate with experience and education background / requirements.
